Data security is a question of protecting data as well as protecting the actual equipment. Many companies provide for digital hazards including virus attacks and hacking, but they often forget to protect their IT setup from traditional hazards such as fire and water damage. Yet, a company's business often depends on total data security.

Consequently, as one of the first companies in Denmark, the Danish do-it-yourself chain jem & fix has purchased the Smart Shelter security room from the Spanish security company AST, delivered and installed by IBM.
